'The experience of sessions will encourage, enliven and expand your world of practical photography, project development and image sharing. You will come away excited by the myriad of opportunities for self expression and develop your journey towards a more focused 'creative you.' ~ Steve Parish

Young Photographers' Seminar | Friday 7th August. 8.30am - 5.00pm

Suitable for High School Students and Adults

Session 1 You are creative and sharing can be great fun!

Creativity is the currency of photography, Steve points you to ways to free your creative potential and fire-up your passion to tell stories from your heart. Discover how Steve uses feeling and stillness to create powerful visual messages, find out how you can too.

Session 2 Click, click, click - let's take photos

See how Steve captures all those incredible animals. Learn how he does it. You can do it too. Bring your camera if you have one (a smart phone or tablet is fine as well). Practice Steve's techniques to get incredible sharpness for both still and moving wildlife.

Session 3 What is your favourite photography subject?

Steve encourages and guides young photographers to develop their own plan to grow and develop as a photographer. The emphasis is placed on featured wildlife and landscapes and flowers. He will show how to combine them, and how, by adding the 'creative you', new and exciting directions appear for your photography.

Session 4 Explore the world of computer editing

Steve demonstrates his own photography workflow from field shooting to final export of processed images for both general publishing and in his fine art work, he also looks at managing, organising and safeguarding your collection of images.

Introduction to Photography Seminar | Saturday 8th August - 8.30am - 5.00pm

Suitable for Adults

Session 1 Enhance your creativity

Creativity is the currency of photography, Steve points you to ways to free your creative potential and fire-up your passion to tell stories from your heart. Discover how Steve uses feeling and stillness to create powerful visual messages, find out how you can too.

Session 2 Grow your camera crafts

Learn and practice the camera techniques that Steve uses in the field. Practice Steve's techniques to get incredible sharpness for both still and moving wildlife. See how he manages tricky lighting and hear his approach to simplifying the use of the exposure triangle, so that he can quickly respond to changing opportunities in front of him.

Session 3 Envision your life with inventive photo projects

Steve encourages and guides participants to develop their own plan to grow and develop as a photographer. The emphasis is placed on featured landscapes, flora and wildlife, and how to combine them, and how, by adding the 'creative you', new and exciting directions appear for your photography.

Session 4 Discover new ways to see photographs anywhere in any light

Steve demonstrates his own photography workflow from field shooting to final export of processed images for both general publishing and in his fine art work, he also looks at managing, organising and safeguarding your collection of images.

Fifty years of experience behind a camera, shooting in many genres and formats, and marketing to millions via an array of media and products, have given Steve a unique background. He is passionately driven to light fires in others through his photography events. In addition to imaging, Steve is also a naturalist and writer driven to passing on his love for nature. He has illustrated and published and in many cases authored hundreds of books for all ages. He has photographed extensively on land, underwater, and in the air. Steve still maintains a heavy, field photography schedule working in all states and habitats on an ongoing basis. His work is published extensively in natural history books, guide books, calendars, diaries, children's books and gift books.
